World-class musicians. Local pride.

The musicians of your Oregon Symphony are heard by tens of millions of people around the world through global broadcasts and Grammy nominated recordings. But they aren't just remarkable artists – they're also your neighbors, friends, and a part of what makes our region so special.

Each year, in addition to their extraordinary performances onstage, Oregon Symphony musicians help to lead award-winning education and community programs. They teach in schools, work with other nonprofit arts groups, and volunteer throughout the state. They bring hope and inspiration to children and adults who otherwise wouldn't have access to live music.

Your Oregon Symphony musicians are pillars of our community. As proud of them as we are, they are proud to call Portland home.

“

I am driven to give my all every time, because the audience gives their all every time.

The commitment this community always shows to the art form and to us feels so personal. So connected.

Share the experience of live music.

Each season, the Oregon Symphony reaches far beyond the concert hall, engaging and empowering tens of thousands of children and adults with free music programs. Our musicians are in schools, retirement centers, hospitals, libraries, correctional facilities and more, sharing music in-person and virtually to enrich lives throughout our community and around the world.

These programs are as vital to our mission as the concerts we present onstage, and they are exclusively funded by generous donors like you. Your gift helps us bring inspiring music to more community members, particularly those who are most in need.

Make your gift online today.
